We now offer to Railroad Companies the cheaped, simplest and most efficient method of enabling the origineer of a locoust tive to apply the entire brakes of a train that has ever been made. We have in our office as full-size model showing the operation of this inversion perfectly, to which we ask the size tion of all persons interested in Railroads. It is needlers to serthe the advantages of giving the engineer the power to app the brakes. Suffice it to say there is hardly a railroad scales occurs but the adoption and proper understanding of this invention would totally orevent or greatly miltigate. It is in malles as the rafety of persons and property conveyed by Railroad
themselves the advantages of this method. For circulan
